College View Academy (Lincoln, Nebraska) (000015)

Scope and Content

College View Academy in Lincoln, Nebraska was founded as a part of Union College in 1891. In 1907 the college and academy curricula were separated and in 1924 the academy, known as Union College Academy, became its own department. In 1962 the College View Seventh-day Adventist Church joined Union College in the management of the academy which was renamed College View Academy. Two years later, the academy changed management yet again when the other Seventh-day Adventist churches in Lincoln united to support a single elementary and secondary school system which operated under the name Seventh-day Adventist Schools of Lincoln.

This collection contains pictures, newsletters, and other miscellaneous documents related to College View Academy. The collection is open and additional items may be added as obtained.

Arrangement

The arrangement of the collection has been done by the Union College Library Heritage Room.
